Mrs. Waller of Rosa Valley was on the San Rafael with her two little children, a bov and a girl. The girl, Ruth, was safely carried from the San Rafael to the Sausalito by William Boyd of the North Pacific Coast Railroad Company, when the two steamers were locked together. Mrs. Waller had the little boy in her arms and was following Boyd to safety when the sinking steamer gave a sudden lurch, and the little fellow was thrown from her arms. The mother cried frantically for someone to rescue the boy, but it could not be done, and he sank out of sight of his mother.

Tredway was pinioned by the splintering timbers when the Fausalito Struck, and after some difficulty was extricated. He was hurried to the upper deck of the injured vessel, and that was the last seen of him, according to the survivors.

"In the meantime, I sang out to Capt. Tribble of the Sausalito to stay along-side and pass us a line, which he did. I then set about to do what I could to see that everybody got aboard the Sausalito. We lowered three lifeboats, and the Sausalito lowered two. Men, women and children piled into them, but we put most of the passengers on the Sausalito by handing them over the rail. We passed the women and children over the rail and through the windows, and most of the men hustled onto the Sausalito without any aid.

personal opinion is that there were not any who were so foolish as to do that, I should say that there were not any lives lost. I am quite certain that nobody was lost overboard during the transferring of the passengers. Those that were in the water were hauled aboard with ropes, and everybody who went into the lifeboat that capsized had life-preservers on.

President's Message to Be Read Tuesday.

Action Relative to Death of President McKinley.

The Introduction of Bills Due Wednesday-Measures of Note-The House.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.] W ASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—One of the first measures of national interest which will be introduced in the Senate at the session which will begin tomorrow, will be a resolution looking to public action concerning the death of President McKiniev. This will be pre-President McKinley. This will be pre-ker or Senator Hanna, probably the former, and after its introduction, the Senate will adjourn immediately as a mark of respect to the memory of the dead President.

The annual message of President Roosevelt will not be received until Tuesday, and on this account the senion Monday will be excedingly brief. It is not now expected that anything will be done that day beyond announcing the death of Senator Kyle, following the death of Senator Kyle, following which the Senate, in accordance with custom, will adjourn for the day. Tuesday, the President's message will be read, and after its reading, the announcement of the death of President McKinley will follow at once, whereupon, under the precedent architiched. McKinley will follow at once, whereupon, under the precedent established when Presidents Lincoin and Garfield died, resolutions providing for the appointment of a committee to act with a similar committee of the House of Representatives to take appropriate action relative to the matter, and then calling for immediate adjournment for the day, will be adopted. Hereforore committees have been appointed to exrange the details of public exercises, and it is understood that plan will be pursued in this instance, and later in the session some public man of distinction will be invited to deliver an eulogy in the Capitol.

tinction will be invited to deliver an eulogy in the Capitol.
Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to the introduction of new bills, and, as usual, there will be a flood of them. Among the first bills of importance to be presented, will be the Ship Subsidy Bill, which will be introduced by Senator Frye, and the Nicaraguan Canal Bill, which Senator Morgan will present. Senator Frye has not entirely completed his bill, but he said today that it would be different in many details from the old bill of he said today that it would be different in many details from the old bill of last session, which measure was framed by former Senator Edmunds. Senator Frye himself is the author of the new bill. Senator Morgan's canal bill will be a duplicate of Representative Hepburn's bill on the canal question. Other early bills of importance will be one looking to the construction of a submarine cable from the western coast to Hawaii, and other providing for the establishment of a new executive destablishment of a new executive de-

The general opinion among Senators is that very little real work will be done before the Christmas holidays. The first subject demanding attention is reciprocity. Various treaties are now pending in the Senate looking to commercial agreements between now pending in the Senate looking to commercial agreements between the United States and other countries. Senator Aldrich will renew his efforts to have these treaties, which already have been reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations, referred to the Committee on Finance, on the ground that they deal with tariff questions. The friends of the treaties will oppose this demand, and the preliminary skirmish expected to ensue, probably will serve to develop some interesting features.

The early days of the session will be marked by the reorganization of the Senate committees, so far as may be necessary, and a caucus of the Republican members will be held tomorrow for the purpose of considering this question, and appointing a committee to suggest names for the vacancies.

The most important place to be filled is that of chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations.

ate that the House has elected Gen. Henderson Speaker and Mr. McDowell Clerk.

By resolution, Speaker Henderson then will appoint a committee of three to join a similar committee from the Senate to inform the President that a quorum of the two houses has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may have to make. Resolutions to adopt temporarily the rules of the last House and to fix the daily hour of meeting also will precede the event of the opening day, the annual seat drawing. The President's message will be withheld until Tuesday.

Gen. Groavenor of Ohio probably will make the announcement to the House of the death of the late President Mc-Kinley, and offer the resolutions upon which the House will act.

Tuesday that portion of the President's message referring to the death of the late President Mc-Kinley probably will be referred to a select committee to arrange a programme of eulogies. It is a remarkable coincidence that Mr. Mc-Kinley was the chairman of the committee which arranged the programme when President Garfield died. Blaine pronounced the Washburn was chairman when Lincoln died, and George Bancroft, the historian, was the orator. After Tuesday the House probably will adjourn three days at a time until Congress recesses for the Christmas holidays. Speaker Henderson will occupy this time preparing his committee lists, which will be announced as soon as the House convenes after the holidays. Practically no business will be transacted before the holidays.

PORT TOWNSEND (Wash.) Dec. 1.—
According to oriental papers brought by the steamship Glenegle, a high official of the Chinese government has memorialized the throne to publish an illustrated book showing the sufferings which the court sustained during its memorable flight from Peking, and that the book be circulated throughout China, so that the people of the empire can see what they were responsible for in countenancing the Boxer uprising. It is supposed it will serve as a warning sot to place the court in such a humiliating position again.

As a reactionary effect of the Boxer movement, large numbers of Chinese at Kiao Chao are becoming Christians. The bow and arrow has ceased to be an official army weapon in China. According to the Hongkong press, an imperial edict was issued October 26 abolishing the bow and substituting the gun. The edict was read for the first time at an examination of a large number of candidates for positions in the military department at Canton.

COURT'S TRAVELS AGAIN HALT. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)
PEKING, Dec. 2.—Prince Ching has informed the ministers of the foreign powers that, owing to the fatigue of the Dowager Empress, resulting from her travels, the last stage of the imperial court's journey has been post-poned for one week. Great preparations are being made here for the reception of the royal party. All the palaces and temples have been repainted and rebuilt. The foreign residents of Peking never have seen these buildings looking so imposing as now.

Upon the day of the reception the route followed by the royal cortege will be lined with Manchu banner men, and elaborate ceremonies will be observed. The condition of Peking has improved immensely, and good discipline is maintained among the European troops stationed here.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M. CHARLESTON (S.C.) Dec. 1.—Impressive religious exercises intended as a prelude to temorrow's opening of the outh Carolina Interstate and West In-South Carolina interstate and was and an Exposition were held at the exposition grounds this afternoon. The naming of December 1 as the opening day of the exposition was without consulting the calendar, and the fact that December 1 was Sunday was discovered only the start time and 1 was then decided a short time ago. It was then decided that a proper way to fulfill the promise made in the resolution as to the open-ng was to hold exercises appropriate to the day.

AUSTRIA TO INCREASE ARMY.

AUSTRIA TO INCREASE ARMY.
VIENNA, Dec. 1.—A council of Austro-Hungarian ministers, held Saturday, at which Emperor Francis Joseph presided, discussed a proposal to increase the standing army of Austria-Hungary by 160 battellons. The measure was declared to be imperative, in order to enable the nation to maintain its position in the triple alliance. The Minister of Finance raised objections to the proposed increase, and no decision was reached, although the proposal was generally favored.

Cape Colony Burdened by Its Forces-"Buller's Sunday" in England.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M. LONDON, Dec. 2.-[By Atlantic Ca-ble.] A dispatch to the Daily Mail from ble.] A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Pretoria gives indication why, with continuous captures, the Boer forces do not seem to diminish. The dispatch says the Boers are constantly escaping from the concentration camps and towns to rejoin the fighting forces, and that measures will have to be taken to stop this leakage. The Boers in the towns are still irreconcilable, says the dispatch, and believe their cause will eventually triumph.

Resolutions denouncing the policy of this government in allowing the exportation of horses and mules to the British in South Africa; denouncing the detention in reconcentrado camps of Boer women and children, and extending sympathy to the Boers now in the field were unanimously adopted, and will be sent to President Rosewelt, with the request that he offer the friendly mediation of this country to the combatants.

Commandant Krige said: "The British must now fight to the end, for if they give in, the people in Little India will say that they are tired of British rule and want their independence. Then Australia will be next to demand ber liberty. As surely as the South African war killed the great old Queen, just so surely will the South African war sound the death knell of the British empire." CAPE COLONY'S BURDEN. When Hyde Park was reached it was almost dark. Here speeches from several platforms representing England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Devonshire and the colonies were made. The confusion was so great as to render the speakers almost inaudible, but amid a roar of cheers, a resolution of sympathy with Gen. Buller was proposed and adopted with great enthusiasm, amid—wild waving of handkerchiefs and hats.

Features of the demonstration were the passing of collection boxes for a workingmen's memorial to Gen. Buller and the large sale of buttonhole portraits and favors of the general.

It is estimated that at least 50,000 people were present at the demonstration in Hyde Park. This makes it the biggest thing of its kind which has occurred for many years.

According to law, both Capt. McKenzie of the San Rafael, and Capt. Tribble of the Sansalito, will be obliged to file reports with the United States in spectors of steam vessels. This will be done tomorrow, and it is possible that the investigation will be begun in the afternoon. Aiready the captains are talking about their whistles and their signals. Some sort of a conflict is sure to develop.

During the morning Capts. Roach and Whitelaw interviewed Capt. Tribble in order to get the location of the sunken boat. They will drag for her. The impression current among bay mariners condemns t. San Rafael for any future sea service.

The Sausalito was pretty badly damaged by the collision. Her bow was shattered to such an extent that during the service yesterday she ran as a single-ender, backing out of the slips and turning round very much after the manner of the boat that now lies submerged.

Now that the heat of the excitement and the nervous strain of those who were a part and parcel of the wreckage incidents have abated, men, women and even the children remember those which were blank to them Satthians. and even the children remember those things which were blank to them Saturday night. The reports conflict as to the behavior of the passengers, Panic certainly did hold its sway for a time. That more lives were not lost is credited to the action of the crew. All who survived the wreck are of a mind that the San Rafael crew behaved with commendable spirft. The women on board were likewise comparatively cool under the circumstances. The two small boats were found today, one off Point Bonits, picked up by the steam schooner Westport, and the other adrift off Union street wharf. In the latter were found a pair of ladies' gloves, two bonnets and spair of garters.

While some of the passengers were frantic and torn asunder with fear, two women of San Rafael, Mrs. and Miss Wilson, divested themselves of all their outer clothing, preparatory to a long swim, if the worst came to the worst. Both are expert swimmers, and they said that they had made up their minds to breast the waves toward the shore if the boat sank before other escape or rescue was possible. Mrs. and Miss Wilson climbed onto the Sausalito finally, their clothes in their arms.

Throughout Marin county today there was a feeling of unrest. The telegraph and telephone operators had more than their share of work. From one end of the county to the other inquiries were made all day long. Information was sought from police officers, morgue and private citizens. To all the small loss of life is looked upon as a miracle.

outer clothing, preparatory to a long swim, if the worst came to the worst. Both are expert swimmers, and they said that they had made up their minds to breast the waves toward the shore if the boat sank before other escape or rescue was possible. Mrs. and Miss Wilson climbed onto the Sausalito finally, their clothes in their arms.

Throughout Marin county today there was a feeling of unrest. The telegraph and telephone operators had more than their share of work. From one end of the county to the other inquiries were made all day long. Information was sought from police officers, morgue and private citizens. To all the small loss of life is looked upon as a miracle.

One of the most thrilling experiences was that of Charles Hill of this city. With a life-preserver on, he floated four hours in the bay. He was picked up by an Italian fisherman almost at the mouth of the Golden Gate, where he had been carried by the tide.

TEN TO TWENTY PERISH.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO. Dec. 1. [Exclusive Dispatch.] Although the manager of the San Rafael ferry line declares that not more than two or three lives were lost by the collision hast night, it is plain. from accounts of several cool-headed men who were on board, that from ten to twenty persons perished in the thick fog. The work of identifying those who are missing cannot be done fully until tomorrow, as most of those who were lost are believed to be working men. They will not be missed until they fail to ap-of life was heavier than managers admit are these:

There were over two hundred and fifty people on board; the boat was suddenly run down, and was seen to be slowly sinking. All were cool on board until the Sausalito backed away. Then it seemed to impress the crowd that they were being deserted, and a pani; set in. When the Sausalito came back, in about five minutes, and a narrow gangplank was run out to the San Rafael, there was a fearful scramble to get on the plank to a place of safety on the other steamer's deck. In the rush, sex and age were disregarded. Men beat women aside and knocked each other down to get first places.

Capt. McKenzie declares that he went through the vessel before she sank, and saw no passengers. His statement is denied by several passengers and also by Martin Christian, first assistant engineer of the San Rafael. Tonight, Christian confirmed the reports of passengers that there were many people on the steamer when she sank. He said:

"When the boat began to sink, I was in the cabin helping passengers to go on deck. My only way out of the cabin was by breaking through a window. This I did, and stepped into the boat alongside, riding directly under me. It was great luck as I expected to drop into the water. As I reached the boat, the steamer lurched down at the bows, and sank. In that room I broke out of were several people, and they could not have had time to get out, as none followed me out of the window. It was not more than a minute from the time I got out until she sank."

The body of W. G. Candall, were found today on Angel Island, where the tide had washed it up. It is expected that more will be washed ashore tomorrow, but the strong ebb tide may have taken them out to sea. The sunken steamer lies in twenty fathoms of water.

Levering as to what the tribe of Indians were who used them.

Some time ago Postoffice Inspector Moore received an intimation that Levering's supposed Indian relics were not genuine. He began an investigation, and found that Levering had printed lists of relics of every description, which he had sent to various persons, especially professors of colleges throughout the country.

Inspector Moore visited Jonca and located the home of Levering, and as he was entering the place Levering, who apparently had suspicions that he was under surveillance, departed rapidly by the rear exit of the house and fled to the woods. The inspector found the workroom of Levering, in which grentle and sone of every description were found, and machinery and implements to manufacture the different kinds of relics.

A PESTIFEROUS GERM.

Burrows Up the Sealp Into Dandruff and Saps the Mair's Vitality.

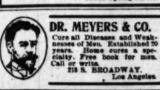

People who complain of failing hair as a rule do not know that it is the result of dandruf, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite burrowing up the scalp as it digs down to the sheath in which the hair is fed in the scalp. Before long the hair root is shriveded up and the hair drops out. If the work of the germ is not destroyed hair keeps thinning till buildness comes. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the serm, and until now there has been no hair preparation that would do it; but today dandruff is easily eradicated by Newbro's Herpicide, which makes hair glossy and soft as sitk.

ROM the Marine Review it is learned that while the additions to the world's registered tonnage have not been so great during the past twelve months as they were during the twelve months preceding, the increase has nevertheless been more important than its process.

has nevertheless been more important than in any previous annual period. The following table shows how gradual and persistent has been the growth of the world's merchant navies during the last thirteen years, only those steamers measuring more than 100 tons net and sailers of over fifty tons net being reckoned:

Steamers Sailers. Total net Autumn of net reg. tons. reg. tons. reg. tons. 1859 ... 1748,000 11,081,000 18,522,000 1859 ... 52,500 10,217,00 19,082,000 1859 ... 52,500 10,217,00 19,082,000 1852 ... 52,500 10,217,00 19,000,000 19,119,000 18,0

While Great Britain has been continually decreasing her sailing tonnage, she still holds nearly a third of the whole quantity affoat. Following is a table showing the total holdings (steam and sail combined) of the ten principal maritime countries expressed in register tons gross:

carrying trade, which must have sinister industrial and social effects if a reaction be not soon produced. British ship owners are now between the choice of evils, the laying up of their vessels (which means the loss or interest on their capital, and loss by depression during idleness,) or the accepting of charters which leave a heavy debit on the mere cost of working. We do not say this applies to all sections, for the area of shipping is as wide as the ocean, but it is the general rule. Shipowning, which has been so profitable for two or three years, is now a losing business. And there is no suggestion of improvement in the freight markets at present, but rather the contrary; first, because the merchant fleets of all the maritime nations are still being increased; second, because, with smaller crops of several natural products and reduced industrial activity everywhere (save in the United States), there will be a smaller amount of tonnage to be moved along the ocean highways in the coming, than in the passing year, and third, because the end of the war in South Africa (when it comes) will set free still more vessels to compete for the general traffic, for which already there are too many competitors. Of course, the settlement of South Africa should result in a large trade movegeneral traffic, for which already there are too many competitors. Of course, the settlement of South Africa should result in a large trade movement, but that is an unknown quantity, while the extent of the world's mercantile tonnage is an actual and tangible fact." Inasmuch as depression in freights and shipbuilding are matters which usually go hand-inhand, it is interesting to know that the output of Sottlish shipyards for the ten months ending with October amounted to 444,555 tons, an increase of 45,403 tons over the same period in 1900, a gain of 40,199 tons over the like period in 1899, and 64,850 tons over October, 1898.

The Steel Industry of South Wales. In a recent article the London Iron and Coal Trades Review observed that it is a matter of common knowledge that South Wales was at one time the principal center in Great Britain of the finished iron industry—at any rate, in reference to rails—and that it subsequently became the chief center of the great steel rail manufacture, which it continues up to the present time. For reasons that are varied and complex, South Wales also became the chief seat of the tin plate industry, which in its earlier career was founded on the use of finished iron, produced from both coke and charcoal bars, but is now practically entirely founded on the use of open-hearth steel bars, produced at more than a dozen works in the principality. Both of these great industries have recently been having an unsatisfactory experience. Two of the leading works have been closed entirely as steel works—the Rhymney and the Tredegar. The open-hearth steel works have not fared materially better. The competition of the United States in tin bars has compelled some of them to work very irregularly, and in a few cases to close their doors, at least temporarily; while the existing resources of production can hardly at any time be said to have been fully employed. What is to be the future of an industry so situated? South Wales possesses sufficient coal resources at fairly moderate prices, splendid shipping facilities, ready access to continental ore supplies, and a highly-skilled, but sometimes rather unmanageable, community of artisans and laborers. No other district appears to be much better off in reference to the essentials of success in the steel and cognate industries. And yet it can hardly be said that much success has been attained. Is this fact attributable to want of technical efficiency, to the difficulties attending the labor problem, or to other causes? It is worth while making an effort to get at the facts.

Do You Suffer From Rheumatism? Thousands and thousands of people are suffering

Sometimes the pain is in the back and other times in the legs, and then again in the shoulders and arms, the joints are stiff and they ache with constant

This is indeed a pitiful state of affairs. Some doctors say it is in the blood; some say one thing and some another and others don't know; but the fact remains that rheumatism is causing lots of needless suffering, no matter what causes it. In fact, you who suffer don't care—what you want is a cure, a positive, quick cure and speedy relief from cure. a positive, quick cure and speedy relief from your terrible pains, your ceaseless aches, your dreadjul nights and torturing days. You want to get well, and Halpruner's Wonderful Pain Remover will cure rheumatism, get it out of your system—stop the pain—give you rest and peace.

Many, many people are well and happy to-day, cured of their rheumatism, and they praise and thank Halpruner's for it. They know Halpruner's cured them, because they know they suffered and they know they took Halpruner's Wonderful Medicine and their suffering ceased. These happy people don't care whether rheumatism is the result of urichey know they had rheumatism and now they are well don't care whether rheumatism is the result of uric because they took Halpruner's and took it as it ought to be taken.

If you suffer go or send to your nearest druggist and get a large bottle of Halpruner's Wonderful Medicine and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water or milk every hour—also rub the medicine on the painful parts—rub it in with vim and vigor, and if you have not the strength get some one else to do it for you.

All druggists sell Halpruner's—50c and $1.00 a bottle—the dollar size contains three times the quantity of the small size. Sent prepaid expressage all over the United Stafes.

"For several months my wife suffered from rheumatism in her neck—the incessant pain was of constant annoyance, and we tried many remedies without relief. A friend of ours advised her to try Halpruner's Rheumatism Cure, which she did, using it externally as well as internally.

"My wife kept up the treatment for three days and then became entirely cured."

"We keep Halpruner's Wonderful Medicine in the house all the time and would not be without it.

America in England.

As a sign of the times it is interesting to note that the Westminster Gazette says that the Americanizing of ohe part of Lancashire, namely, Trafford Park Estate, Manchester, is now proceeding apace. About one thousand houses, mostly of the cottage type, have been erected there and are being rapidly tenanted by artisans who are employed or expected to be employed at one or other of the works which are being opened in Trafford Park. The laying out of this miniature town which has sprung into being in a phenomenally short time, is being vigorously pushed forward. Streets are being planned on the American system, and, instead of being numbered consecutively as in the States. They are lighted by electricity, as are also the dwellings comprising this new Manchester colony. Shops retailing all kinds of goods are springing into existence here and Manufacturing. Company, Limited, whose workshops are expected to give employment to over 4000 men and youths. Some of the foremen engaged are Americans, and the nassit twang is not altogether missing. Other industrial concerns in Trafford Park include lard refineries, dynamo works, brick and tile works, electric light and power supply stations, timber yards, warehouses for cotton, etc.

Movement for Free Hides.

Ways and Means Committee, and as it passed the House, retained hides on the free list, but at the behest of a few Populist Senators, who held the balance of power in the Senate, foreign hides were made dutiable at 15 per ceni. ad valorem. It has never appeared that there was any particular demand from any considerable number of people for a tax on hides. The only beneficiaries of the tariff on hides are the big dressed beef packers.

On the other hand, the effect of the tax has been to discourage the efforts of the shoe manufacturers, who are building up an export traffic in shoes. The tariff is supposed to protect American industry, and yet this particular clause not only falls to protect the American workman, but actually benefits the shoe operatives of England, France and Germany. The shoe manufacturers of these countries are enabled, with their ports open to hides, to produce cheap leather and shoes. Indeed, by the peculiar operation of the draw-back clause of the Dingley Bill, the American tanner receives a rebate of the duty on foreign hides, if the leather made from them is exported. In this way the shoe manufacturers of Europe can buy leather in the United States for almost 15 per cent. less than our own manufacturers can purchase it. chase it.

Duties on personal baggage arriving by European steamers at New York amounted to $12,744 in October, as against $39,590 for October, 1900. Since March 1, 1901, when the new regulations went into effect, the collections have amounted to $12,787,388, as against $192,045 for the corresponding period in 1900.

It is likely that shipments of from ore from the Lake Superior district via the Great Lakes will amount to more than 20,000,000 gross tons this year, says the Rallway Age, this estimate including the rew hundred thousand tons moved every year by rail. The total output for 1900, including rail shipments, was 19,059,393 gross tons, and the gain this year will be approximately 1,000,000 tons. To November 1 there were carried 18,143,537 tons this year against 17,287,925 tons for the same period one year ago. The October shipments of ore aggregated 2,584,488 tons, or 583,581 tons in excess of the shipments of the same month a year ago.

October was a "record-breaker" in the building industry of the country. Statistics furnished by the Construction News show that 6328 permits, involving an expenditure of 324,990,25, were taken out, as against 5650, costing $19,678,848, for the same period of last year, a gain of 678 structures and an increased expenditure of $3,312,077. Eighteen municipalities show increases, varying from .003 per cent. in the case of Denver, to 394 per cent. in that of Atlanta. Three cities show losses, towit: Chicago, Brooklyn and Pittaburgh. 25 per cent., 29 per cent. and 42 per cent., respectively. Pittaburgh's heavy loss is probably due to the fact that in October, 1900, the records of that city included one building, the value of which was $2,500,000. In proportion to its size building operations in Pittsburgh show a greater gain than in any other city of the United States. Los Angeles, Memphis, Atlanta, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Cleveland, Washington, D. C., St. Paul and Kapsas City all tell of activity in building construction.

LIVELY SUNDAY IN CHURCHES.

Sharp Reply to J. Stitt Wilson's Attack on the Christian System Anniversary at Immanuel.

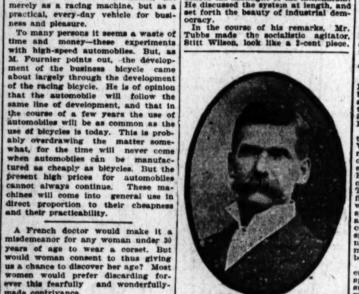

V ESTERDAY was Advent Sunday, the New Year's Day of the church calendar, and was observed with solemnity and pomp in the ritualistic churches. There was an unusually large attendance. In the Catholic churches, in place of the usual sermons, a pastoral letter from Bishop Montgomery was read. It was communion Sunday, also, in many of the Protestant churches.

Demoished Stitt Wilson.

Rev. Jerome F. Tubbs of the Church of the Redeemer, who is well read in matters of political and social science, and who is always ready to speak upon any live issue without tear favor, treated his people to a succinct explanation of Socialism Sunday morning. The speaker declared that theoretical Socialism is an ideal system, and when incorporated into human fiber to perfection that we will behold the flashlight of the millennium. He discussed the system at length, and

"If true, then Socialism will never-succeed until they discover and apply a stronger power than Christianity to human hearts, by which they can extract from the human breast that intense desire to get all and to keep all that lies within reach; until then, ideal Socialism is a flat failure, and all this talk is a phrase, for it is not in politics to reform human nature.

"Admit, if you please, that our livenhood depends upon the efficiency of the government, and that all force and energy which now go into private energy which now go into public channels. What, then, would happen? Why, unscrupulous men would take control of government; then, with only one employer, the government, a dismissal would mean starvation or emigration, as there would be no industrial institutions outside of government; hence no redress, as all superintendents and overseers are under pay of government. Where would you find redress, with all newspapers in the employ of government, and with all attorneys and all preachers supported by funds drawn from governmentall industrial institutions? Where will reform come from, for this ideal government will never hire walking delegates to seek its overthrow?

"It has been held that the dominating of a single social principle has led to the downfall of civilizations older than ours. Socialism must reform, in order to be Socialism, for it has failed to reform or to cut off the riff-raff and anarachistic elements entirely.

"While Socialism preaches much that is good, still it is not only imperialistic in its demands, but it actually incites and inflames; it coddless and condones the turbulent classes and forges weapons for anarchy; and yet they profess to possess the power to grind out a higher type of civilization than the Christian church has given to the world.

What About the Miracles?

Dr. George Thomas Dowling, at Christ Episcopal Church, said yesterday morning:

"Upon this Advent Sunday I want to study the character of Jesus Christ in its relation to the supernatural. His miracles, in view of His unique character, were possible, probable, natural and supernatural. And I am very careful about the selection of that word supernatural. If a person says to me: "I cannot believe that God would make laws for nature and set them in motion, and then go and violate His own laws"—why, I answer, 'I cannot either. And He never has: I do not believe He ever will.' The miracles of the Bible are not unnatural; that is, contrary to nature, that is, contrary to nature, with which we are at present acquainted. If we knew as much of the laws of nature as Jesus Christ, there would be no such thing as a miracle, in its special and technical significance. A gun is a miracle to a savage.

"And I speak of Christ being supernatural, hecause I can overcome natural law, because I can overcome natural law, because I can overcome natural law, because I can overcome instrual law. Natural law would make that hall which you throw at me keep right on until by force of gravitation, it fell to the earth. But there is something in me which is supernatural, it is the inbreating of my Maker; it is the inbreating of my Maker; it is the power of the mind. And though natural law says that that ball shell keep on until it falls to the sround, I say it shall not; and I introduce a power—not which is contrary to nature, but above it. If you saw that ball keep on until it fells to the sround, I say it shall not; and I introduce a power—not which is contrary to nature, but above it. If you saw that ball shell keep on until it folls to the sround, I say it shall not; and I introduce a power—not which is contrary to nature, but above it. If you saw that ball she is a miracle which I have just performed, for I stopped it.

"Now, when you hear a miracle defined by the sooffer at Christianity as What About the Miracles?

something which is unnatural, remember that he has not grasped the thought of what a miracle is. It is not unnatural. It is supernatural. I had a friend in my house not long since who told me that in Chicago with a long-distance telephone he talked with a friend in New York. Twenty years ago you would without hesitation have declared that statement not only false, but absurd. You would have said it is contrary to the nature of things. Suppose, for example, we had read in the scriptures that Jesus Christ had placed His mouth at one end of a wire and thus talked with His disciples across the Sea of Galliee, which is only six miles wide, I think I can see some of the opponents of Christianity chuckling and punching one another playfully in the ribs, and saying, "Do you believe that story?"

Two Mighty Attractions.

Pastor Joseph Smale preached in the First Baptist Church yesterday morning, from the text, "For they that are after the fiesh do mind the things of the fiesh; but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit." Romans viii, 5. He said, in part: "Religion, true and pure, is peculiarly the domain of the spirit of God. Wherever you shut Him out, you shut religion out, and mo soul can have the one without the other. Now, a soul is either of the fiesh or of the spirit. Fiesh and spirit are opposites. To be of the fiesh is not to be of the spirit. To be of the spirit is not to be of the fiesh. The fiesh is never concerned with the things of the spirit, nor the spirit with the things of the fiesh. They are distinct and diverse, and cannot coalesce. So fundamental in religion is spirituality, that it inheres in the very mature of the Christian life. If any man have not the spirit, he does not belong to Christ.

"There has ever been an attempt to embody true religion man from the man have not the spirit, he does not belong to Christ.

There has ever been an attempt to embody true religion apart from the spirit, and it is interesting to note the substitutes, or what man would call synonyms for the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. They are excellent manners, correct speech, good taste, and all those proprieties that are the concomitants of a high civilization. The world's religion rings the changes upon education, culture, good citizenship, wholesome city. State and national government, harmonious and esthetic material conditions and environment, all of which are unquestionably desirable. But these things are not religion, though religion is favorable to these things, and will uitimately usher them in to perfection. The great truth to which the world needs to listen is, that, after all it has done or will do, and it may reduce barbarisms to a name, and idolatry and every gross that, after all it has done or will do, and it may reduce barbarisms to a name, and idolatry and every gross vice to a minimum, but after its utmost effort, it will find the evolutions of the race powerless to yield religion. So let none of us be deceived. They that are of the flesh do mind the things of the flesh. Never in the sphere of the flesh does the soul come to a natural bridge, by which it may cross into the realm of the spiritual. That transition from the flesh to the spirit is most necessary to the embodiment of religion, for if any man loveth not the Lord, let him be anathema. That man is perplexed with an irritating and persistent problem who would create in himself, or in the world, religion without the spirit of God."

cended up on high. He lead captivity captive and gave sifts unto men. To some He gave anosatles, some prophets, some evangelists and some pastors and teachers." Dr. Walker said, in part:

"We will soon he in the midst of our Christmas festivities, remembering the songs of the angels as they proclaimed the coming of the world's Redeemer. In a few more months as spring kisses away the frost and the new Rowers bloom, comes Easter, and all the glory of the resurrection morn. We too often forget that the glory of Christ's ascension was the greatest event of all—it was then that He 'led captivity captive' and gave His largest gifts. When conquering Alexander was in the glory of his empire he gave large gifts, when conquering Alexander was in the glory of his empire he gave large gifts, so did Caesar, so did Napoleon, and when our Captain had triumphed over all He ascended and gave gifts. His best and greatest gift was the Holy Spirit to guide us into all truth. Then He gave good and great men, saying to the household of faith. 'Ye are built upon the foundation of the apostice and prophets, himself being the chief corner-stone.' Evangelists were sent of God to travel from city to city, and in every land to plant the church. Then came the builders, pastors, elders and bishops, overseers and shepherds who were to build up the church and extend her borders.

"My coming here a stranger four years ago to be your pastor was not of my own choosing, or your seeking, but a strange providence, and I declare to you today that I believe my happy relation here was the Divine purpose. My relation to you and this city sas an humble pastor, and how to meet my obligations is the one prayer and consuming thought of my life, I need not tell you that this wonderful city with all its wonderful forces, to me, is the greatest city and God's glory will ever break the tie that binds us.

"What are some of the gifts of God to us as a city and a church? Its marvelous growth opens wide a large door for us and gives us immense possibilities. Thou this is God's city, her press, her schools, her churches, under God's blessing, will plant her banners on the ramparts of victory."

Pain of Progress.

Rev. C. J. K. Jones preached yesterday morning in the Church of the Unity on "The Cost and Pain of Progress." He said, in part: "We make progress in life only by paying something for it. Many there are who think our modern civilization and its attead ant benefits are not worth what they have cost, and are costing. I do not agree with them. Our progress, in every phase of it, social, intellectual, moral, industrial, political and religious, is worth all it has cost, for it could not have been obtained without paying the price. I recall no civic or intellectual good but has been attained through much tribulation in hardship and suffering. Martyrdom in some form has been the consequence which has followed the unselfash efforts of the world's great liberators and illuminators of our humanity. The pages of all the greatest bigraphies reveal that no unselfish, magnanimous and advanced mind has been fully appreciated at the time of its being among men. Of many of the benefactors of their fellow-men it has been truly said, he lived before his time. And yet is the fullest and largest sense it is also true that had he not lived when he did the better and nobler time would have been still longer delayed.

"The test of a restful and undisturbed life as indicating its value does not consequence at life as indicating its value does not consequence with the notice of their fellow-men it has been truly said, he lived before his time. lived when he did the better and nobler time would have been still longer delayed.

"The test of a restful and undisturbed life as indicating its value does not apply to the men who have had the power and will to think, and to express themselves. We of the lesser life, as compared with the great ones of human kind, have observed or experienced that our noblest aspirations and hungerings may, and often do, lead us into troubles manifold. Our sincerest attempts at helping men are unappredated. But I am daily thankful that men there have been and are, for whom there are no dangers, difficulties, or hardships of any sort that can daunt them. The pathway of human progress is marked by innumerable monuments of heroic lives who have given themselves to perils and death for the sake of their fellow-men, who often condemned them. Whatever we are in intelligence or character as individuals, or a people. Is due to the great cost men have paid and the pain they have endured that others might be advantaged by their labors and sacrifice. This seems strange to us, and yet so it is.

God's Cure for Despondency.

God's Cure for Despondency.

The subject of the morning discourse at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church yesterday morning was "God's Cure for Despendency." The lesson was found in Kings zix. It was about Elliah conquering Ahab and the false prophets. Rev. Landis said in part:

"Despondency is a dread disease. It is sometimes called the blues, sometimes discouragement, and some people say they are disheartened, but all these things come under the head of despondency, and a man possessed of this disease must be cured, or he becomes a figurehead in God's cause. The causes of this disease are, first physical fatigue. If a man is tired and all worn out everything in the world usually seems to go wrong with him. He sees everything in a morbid way. Despondency frequently follows after a man has been on the pinnsele of glory or good fortune. Whenever a person reaches the point where he is just as happy or fortunate as he wants to be there is sure to come the time when he is brought to "the valley of person reaches the point where he is just as happy or fortunate as he wants to be there is sure to come the time when he is brought to the valley of despondency. A proud heart cometh before destruction and haughty spirit before a fall. Sometimes people are despondent for the want of sympathy, at the time when things go wrong, there is no one to say, 'My heart beats in love and sympathy for you,' Another cause for despondency is a fallure to accomplish some great purpose in life, that we aimed to accomplish. Because we do not see and conquer every time, we think there is no use to exercise our will powers and fight again. These are the causes for despondency, and God has given us the cure for it. First get the body in a good, healthy condition. If it is tired, rest it, and if it is sick, doctor it to get it healthy. Then go to God's work, up qualified to do this work. Hence, Moses had the work of a historian to do.

"For a work of such commanding import God raised up and fitted Moses. That he might be acceptable to Israel and also to appreciate their need he was born of the right race of people and under conditions to familiarise him with their needs. Moses was never in true smypathy with his brethren in the flesh. That he might be qualified as their liberator he spent fority years in the wilderness, where they were to sojourn that he might be familiar with its topography and inured to hardship. That he might be fitted to hardship. The he do hardship had not have been done to service today as ever of old. Those who not equalified can enter upon this high service to God and humanity. On the human side it is a matter of fitness, proparation. The field is ever open, the call is ever ready for the noblest service to God and man. Let men ever watch and wait for the call of God to service."

LOS ANGELES THEATER. "Should old acquaintance be forgot," is the salutation at the head of the programme in the Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels, who opened an engagement at the Los Angeles Theater last night. The first part is neatly staged and full of brightness, the chorus work being exceptionally fine. The olio is composed of six numbers or turns and each is an improvement on its predecessor. Altogether the show is well worth seeing. George Wilson, the comedian, the same old-fashloned, jolly George, is still at the head of the organization with new songs, new fun, quaint monologue and his "waits me again" gestures. Edwin Platt, basso, and George Morgan, male contralto, are the three logue and his "waits me again" geatures. Edwin Piatt, basso, and George Morgan, male contralto, are the three stars of the first part. Morgan's song, "Busie," won for him a storm of applause; which was richly merited. His voice is of phenomenal range, and every note is sweet and clear as a bell. Platt, who has a bass voice of exceptional strength, knows how to use it. Wilson's songs, "Mazie," and his medley, and "Tale of a Bumble Bee," were all well sung, the entire house whisting with him the chorus. He also added to his laurels by a monologue and a couple of well-sung ditties. Claude Menkee's orchestra is a feature not to be overlooked, and opened the ollo with two selections which brought out it ability to excellent advantage. Marion and Pearl, comely acrobata do an amusing turn, and introduce some unheard-of feats of agility. Gordon and Somers, an excellent musical team, one of the best heard yet in this city, extract music from a deseit different instruments, their work on the xylophone being the best thing they do. Masier and Conley give a funny dialogue and a comic song or two, and the programme concludes with the Young brothers, comedy acrobats, who assume the guise of Chinese coons and execute a number of remarkable tricks in tumbling. The engagement is for three more nights and a special Wednesday matinée.

as Mr. Dooley would say. When sinaman is willing to be loquaclous does not have to ply him with stions. He talks the time-honored setions. He talks the time-honored treak"—and has a faculty of getting the point much faster than his white ether. But when it pleases him to be best no amount of caloling will bring the a word. "Again, you say we know or care nothing about your government. In my business I associate with all classes, black, yellow and white, and I have repeatedly found men who did not understand your Constitution or your laws, and these men were your own race. I predict that in ten years the resident Chinese of America will be among the voting population of the United States, and intelligent supporters of your government."

Fawn next steered The Times interviewer to George Lem, on Apablasa street, but Lem didn't talk, or wouldn't rather. He pleaded ignorance, but his appearance, apparent prestige and fine conversational knowledge of "United States" made one reject his protests.
"You go to Ching Wing; everybody down here knows him; he is a druggist on Los Angeles street, and well educated; he'il talk to you." Since it was apparent that Lem wouldn't talk, the reporter went.

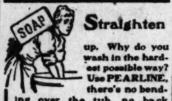

AN OLD CHINESE SETTLER.

AN OLD CHINESE SETTLER. "I have lived in this city forty-two years," Ching Wing said. "I have as-sociated with all classes of Chinese, and I find that they are almost all in-dustrious, capable workmen is their line. Now we do not have so many laborers among our immigrants as the Japanese: our people take up more line. Now we do not have so many laborers among our immigrants as the Japanese: our people take up more individual lines of business. We have many merchants, and many farmers. You do not understand that our lower class take up land that your agriculturalists would not use, and make it productive, or enter some business which you laugh at, and make an honest living by doing it well. Our men, when they come here, do not become charges upon the town or city, as so many of that pauper class which come from Europe. They come because their friends want them, and their friends loan them money for a start, if they have none of their own, and when they get that start they pay that money back. Our people do not rush into this country, would not, nor never did do so, unless they had fair prospects of making a living. Well-informed Chinese everywhere despise being driven one way or the other by unlons or corporations, and desire only to stand upon their own merits. Am I in favor of Chinese immigration? Well. I have told you these facts, and a long life among my people has led me to believe that Chinese immigration would not be injurious to the best interests of your people, and that they consider

ANGELENO HEIGHTS.

Last Friday evening the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Bethany Presbyterian Chürch celebrated its tenth anniversary as a home and foreign mission band. It has assisted in the support of a boy among the mountain whites of North Carolina, and in the support of a foreign missionary. Assisted by the intermediates the juniors gave a pleasing characterization in costume of the different nations among which the Presbyterian Church has missions. A native Alaskan girl, with a little papoose upon her back, chooned a native lullaby. Flags of all heathen nations were also displayed. Rev. C. M. Fisher, who spent several years in the Orlent, appeared in Japanese costume, and spoke upon the religious costumes of Japan, illustrating with interesting curios.

coming." He followed it too far, however, and was sent to the bench.

The trouble originated in the last half of the third inning with the locals at bat. Spies bunted the ball and beat it to first by a wide margin. Harper had the nerve to call him out, and naturally Spies was mad. When he went to catch the next Dutch inning he handed Harper a few hot words, and threw the ball dangerously close to him in sending it back to Hale. The second time he did this Harper "caught on," and in another minute Spies had been ordered to the bench and was succeeded by Dummy. Being sore on Harper from the day before, the crowd did not fancy seeing Spies leave the game, and from that time to the finish, roasted Harper to a rich malogany.

DOYLE PITCHED AGAINST THEM. IST THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. I SAN JOSE, Dec. I.—La Joie's All-Americas defeated the National Leaguers at Cyclers Park by the score of six to three. The game was fast and snappy and full of brilliant plays. The stick work of both teams was terrific. A total of 19 base hits was made during the game. Steinfeld secured a three-bagger; La Joie made two two-baggers and Davies and Chance one each. Bradley, the sturdy third baseman of the All-Americas accured a total of three base hits out of four times to bat. The great La Joie showed up in fine form and fully displayed to the large enthusiastic audience his ability to play ball. Rube Waddell, the great pitcher, was in the box for the All-Americas and Doyle of the Sacramentos pitched for the Nationals. Both pitched great ball, each striking out five men. The All-Americas made the first score in their half of the section.

He is accused of robbing a man of $45 while the latter was intoxicated. According to the story of his alleged viotim, Felts represented himself as an efficer and pretended to take the man into custody. He took him to a secluded spet and there is said to have gobbled all the money the man had. He supposed that his viotim was too drunk to remember what had happened, but when the man became sober he swore to a complaint against Felts, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Felts learned that the officers were looking for him and fied to San Francisco. He will now be tried on a charge of grand larceny.

Hobos Try to Rob a Citizen and Then Tackle an Officer, Who Knocks Down Two of Them and Arrests the Whole

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Dec. 1 .- [Fron Times' Resident Correspondent.] Five hobos are in jail charged with at-tempted highway robbery, the crime being one of the boldest which has ever being one of the boldest which has ever been attempted here. Shortly after dark last evening F. H. Crawford started home from the business center of town. He had gone only two blocks when he was set upon by five men, who demanded his money. They threatened to "do him up" if he did not give them all he had. One of them struck at him, but he dodgred the blow struck at him, but he dodged the blow and ran. He made his way back to ported the attempted robbery to City Marshal Johnson.

star was concealed under his cont, so star was concealed under his coat, so that to all appearances he was simply a citizen wending his way homeward. The gang of hobos had not left the scene of their first attempt, and when Johnson appeared they sprang out at him. In an instant they were treated to a surprise which they will not soon to a surprise which they will not soon forget. At the command to throw up his hands the City Marshal obeyed, but in one hand was his club, and in the other his six-shooter. He knocked down the two hobos who were nearest him, and then covering the others with his gun, arrested the whole crowd. With the assistance of several citizens he escorted his prisoners to jail. They will undoubtedly be tried for highway will undoubtedly be tried for highway robbery.

The peace officers of this county have had more trouble with hobos this season than ever before. In the city and in the smaller towns there have been numerous burgiaries, and other thefts, but only a few cases of highway robbery have been reported. Many of the tramps have been arrested, and it has been found that a large percentage of them are men who left San Francisco as a result of the recent labor troubles there, and who, unable or unwilling to find work, have taken to the road, and live off the country through which they pass.

Thibetan Skull Drums.

A drum of an extreme repulsiveness of nature is one used by the Lamas of Thibet at some of their church ceremonies. For this the craniums of two skulls, preferably children's, are taken, and over the concave side of each is stretched the skin of a snake. The two skulls are then cemented at their twertices to either side of a wooden disk covered with cotton cloth, the stretched skin being outermost. These drums are often ornamented by having the heads of devils and such like horrors, the more repulsive the better, painted upon them in red and blue colors. The method employed in playing them is rather curious. To the wooden disk between the two halves a cord is fastened by which the drum can be suspended and then rapidly rotated. Two short cords with knobs at their ends hang down in such a way that as the drum revolves they strike alternately on either face, and thus produce a regular "tum, tum."—[Good Words. RIVERSIDE, Dec. 1.-[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] or more burglars were operating on North Orange street last night. About midnight a thief was heard trying to effect entrance into the Heap residence, corner of Orange and Sixth streets. Mrs. Heap went into the dining-room and when the would-be burglar real and when the would-be burgiar realized that he had been heard be scurried off in the darkness.

Some time during the night a burgiar, supposedly the same man, entered J. R. Simms's residence, corner Fifth and Orange streets, through a rear window. None of the immates of the burse heard him and it was not until window. None of the inmates of the house heard him, and it was not until this morning, when Mr. Simms found his coat, vest and shirt in the laundry-room, that it was known a burglar had been operating. Mr. Simms lost a d'amond shirt stud, a $5 gold piece and a small amount of change. His watch, on which his initials were engraved, was not taken.

Later in the night an attempt was made to break into the home of G. G. Merrill at Fourth and Orange streets, but the thief was frightened away. Meanwhile the officers had been notified. by telephone. Constable Schneider met a stranger on North Market street, who said, "Hello, pard," and then started to run. The officer, after calling on the fellow to halt, fired live shots at him, none of which, it is thought, took effect, as the stranger kept on running and disappeared.

ACTON, Dec. 1.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] N. M. Melrose, who, n a fist fight with W. H. Broome sevin a nst ngnt with W. H. Broome several days ago, inflicted such injuries upon the latter that he had to go to a Los Angeles hospital for repairs, declares that the trouble was not of his making. His side of the story differs materially from that told by Broome. Melrose says that the fight began when he went to give Broome a letter which had been received improperly seafed. Broome did not wait for an explanation, but attacked Melrose, whose wife is postmaster here. The two men fought to the street, when Melrose downed Broome and held him. Mrs. Melrose took no part in the fight. When Broome was released he again struck Melrose, and it was then that he received such punishment as to make it necessary for him to go to Los Angeles for treatment. The trouble between the two men is of long standing, and its ramifications are such that to explain it all would require no small volume, but the above is Melrose's side of the scrap.

RESIDENCE BURNED. CHATSWORTH PARK, Dec. 1.— [From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The residence of Willard Johnson was destroyed by fire yesteraponent.] The residence or willard Johnson was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon with nearly all its contents. Mrs. Johnson had left the kitchen for a few minutes, and when she returned the ceiling was ablaze. It is probable that the stovepipe became overheated or, fell from the chimney hole, and set fire to the woodwork of the room. The loss will exceed $500. There is insurance amounting to $300 on the building and contents.

The shack occupied by a laborer on the Southern Pacific tunnel burned to the ground a few days ago. The man was asleep in the place when the fire broke out, and when he awoke he was unable to open the door. His face was badly burned, and his eyesight may be destroyed. He has been sent to a Los Angeles hospital for treatment.

to Bakersfield.

The Sunday-school mass meeting, in the First Methodist Church, last night, at which the attraction was an address by Charles D. Meigs on "The Front Line Sunday-school," was magnificent.

The entire edifices was crowded—both auditorium and Sunday-school room, and both balconies. It was an inspiring audience for any speaker, and Mr. Meigs was equal to the occasion. He divided schools into three classes—rear line, middle line and front line, and made many good points under each heading. Church members he divided into three classes, after the manner of the 'bus driver, who, when he came

The front-line Sunday-school was the one with up-to-date appliances and up-to-date methods and ideas.

Mr. Meigs attended six Sunday-schools yesterday morning from 9:30 to 11 o'clock, and made a short address at each. They were First Christian, First English Lutheran, Immanuel Presbyterian, First Baptist, First Methodist and University Methodist. From the church last night he went direct to the rail-way station and took a train for Bakersfield at 19:20. He will spend today in that place, and go thence to San José and San Francisco.

He was much delighted with his reception in Los Angeles, remarking in one of his illiustrations that when he "squoze their hands the people squoze back." And the Sunday-school people were equally well nessed with their guest.

IMMENSE THRONG.

Memorial Exercises of Elks and Address of Delmas-Hundreds Unable to Get Into Theater.

Yesterday all good Elikmen of Los Angeles drew this sacred tablet from their inmost hearts and read anew the names and virtues of their departed, washing away with their soul-tears any written sands there may have been. The sound of sweet music was given wing by loving hearts to float afar into that fathomless "Somewhere" in which these these baseless and the same property of the same in which those other brothers are; the lofty words of strong men were launched on beyond the near human ears, to be gathered in across the silence by the eternal listeners . over there. Wherever that other place is whither the brothers of all Eliss at some time go, it is only so far from earth as human love can reach, and in their beautiful memorial service yesterday the Los Angeles lodge proved the scope of its brotherly love.

The throng that bade fair to burst outward the walls of the Burbank Theater yesterday afternoon, was an audience of bowed hearts; not sad hearts all, but reverent, bowed gracefully to the occasion. There were at least 300 people there, and it is hard ever to find a crowd of that size that is uniformly in harmony with a worshipful hour. Nobody seemed to have come simply to enjoy the programme; mbody applauded at brave words or pleasing music—the people listened and accepted with the inner self. It spoke well for the congregation who rallied round the Eliss at their prayer time.

The audience was handsome and finely-dressed, as well as numerous; it was good to look from the wings back over the faces upraised there in the half-light during song and prayer and story; it was especially good to see when the tide rose full above the seats from wall to wall, and, standing, every one joined with full accord at the close in the old hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The fine octette had just poured the sweet strains of "The Holy City" into every thrilling ear, and the man of God on the platform had prayed over all with uplifted hands. The speaker of the day, Hon. D. M. Delmas, had spoken noble, rhythmic thoughts just before. Every one felt nearer their God, and sang it, while up to that moment the big congregation had been as silent as breathing men and women can be.

The house was appropriately decorated with flags and howers. The stage was swathed in royal purple, and in the center, upon an immense pair of clus's horns, that stood up from the floor, was laid a huse wreath of violets and purple sw

The Eiks were there themselves in large numbers—from six to seven hundred of them. The Pasudena Lodge attended in a body, and the memorial service was conducted jointly with them. There were probably one hundred visits File from Migrant before row ne'er is found in all the boundless limits of that land."

The speaker of the day, Hon, D. M. Delmas, the distinguished lawyer of San Francisco, shortly followed with his thoughtful talk, the product of a richly-stored mind, which he termed "a lay sermon." Mr. Delmas advanced quletly from the wings almost before any one realized his presence, and immediately took to himself the full attention of the audience with his strong, reserved manner and his eloquent right hand, which is almost continuously raised while he speaks. He spoke for almost an hour and it was a pleasure to hear him. There was scarcely a sound throughout the audience while he occupied the stage.

THE ORATION OF DELMAS.

THE ORATION OF DELMAS,

THE ORATION OF DELMAS.

Mr. Delmas framed his address in the form of a narrative, telling the story of an hour he once chanced to apend in a little country church beside the sea, contrasting the lesson taught by the rough preacher there with the scenes of pompous worship which he had seen in the great cathedrais of Europe, and thus leading up to the simple creed of the order of Eliks—the quiet, practical aid to and love of brother men. The eloquent speaker began:

"Nineteen centuries have now elapsed since this day, was first consecrated and set apart to be kept among the Christian peoples of the earth as a time of rest and worship. At its dawn all who are wont to kneel in the shadow of the cross lay aside the pursuits of active life—its toils; its struggles, its ambitions—and forget, if they may, its sorrows and its sufferings, to devote themselves to the contemplation of those higher duties which they owe to themselves, to their fellowmen, and to that Power, eternal, infinite, omnipotent, which, by whatsoever name called among men, created the universe and rules the destinies of mankind.

"Fitting, therefore, was it that of all days this should be selected by your order as the appointed time to recall the memory of those of its numbers who, separating themselves during the last twelvementh from the ranks of its goodly procession and lying down for order as the appointed time to recall the memory of those of its numbers who, separating themselves during the last twelvemonth from the ranks of its goodly procession and lying down for a moment by the roadside to rest, have failen into that sleep which, while it closes the eyes of men upon the objects of this world, opens them upon the realms of eternity. No hour could be more appropriately dedicated to the commemoration of the dead; none more fit to pronounce the eulogy of their virtues and their good deeds, to blot out with a tear all trace of their human imperfection, and to look above in the consolatory hope that their spirit, returning to the fountain of all life, there awaits the coming of those who are permitted to linger yet a while upon earth.

"A stranger to your order in all save admiration and sympathy for the generous spirit of brotherhood upon which it is based, the lofty ideals of conduct which it inculcates and the broad humanity which it diffuses and practices. I have come among you, honored by the invitation which makes me a sharer in the ennobling sentiments of the hour, and prizing the privilege which permits me to join, I hope with no discordant note, in the voicing of thoughts not inappropriate to the occasion."

"Riding along the coast southward of San Francisco, in the early part of last September, I stopped for rest, as twilght drew near, in one of the villages which are scattered along at intervals on the narrow margin of land between the Santa Cruz Mountains and the ocean. After the evening meal, when night had set in, I heard not afar off the sound of a church bell, and turned my steps in the direction of its summons. The place I entered was striking only by its unpretending simplicity. Its-white walls were barren of either ornament, or attempt at decoration. Chairs of common pattern, affording, it may be, a seating capacity for 150 persons; a plain desk placed upon a slightly-raised platform, and a small organ of ordinary design, made up the whole of its furnishings. The wooden fl wooden floor was uncovered, save where a strip of matting had been stretched along the aisles. Less than twoscore attendants, of the farming and laboring classes, the minister and the organist constituted the whole congregation.

"The service had already commenced; and, as I came in, the minister was offering up a prayer. The Sunday was that during which the murdered President lay upon that couch of suffering, which fate had decreed should be his bed of death, while the nation, awestricken, was agitated by an agony of alternate hope and fear for his safety. Earnestly did the supplicant voice the duiversal anguish with which every American heart was filled. Impresided if the which, beginning amid the humblest surroundings, and exhibiting its first activities upon the country's battle fields, had risen from height to height, until it had reached the loftlest eminence which in the world of today it is in human power to attain. And when, at last, he turned to Him who holds in His mighty hands the fate of men and empires, imploring His infinite goodness and mercy to spare the suffering martyr to the nation which had honored him, and, more than all, to her who had been the gentle companion of his manhood's years, and upon whom he had lavished with unstinted love and never-wearying tenderness the treasures of his heart, the voice of prayer broke into a wall of anguish, while the humble haddence stood with bowed heads, hushed as mourners are hushed by the side of the unclosed grave.

"After giving out his text, from the fifth Epistle of Paul to the Galatians. By love serve one another. For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, he began by describing the events which were then agitating the events which were then agitating the events which were then agitating the city of San Francisco.

"Where, he asked, was the cause of this sorrowful condition to be found? It was he second of their fathers, and bowed in adoration before the shrine of the, Golden Calf. The dominant Mether's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of the great pain and danger of maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the

of Christ. It is time that those who call themselves His followers should remember that, from the hour He was born until the agony at Gethsemane and the final explation upon Golgotha, His whole life was devoted to the uplifting of the humble and the lowly, that His teachings were for equality, and that His death was the last and supreme sacrifice in the cause of humanity and justice.

His death was the last and supreme sacrifice in the cause of humanity and justice."

"As I stood once more under the light of the stars, in the silence of the night, unbroken save by the rhythmic murmur of the neighboring ocean, a flood of thought swept over my mind. I could not help contrasting the spectacle I had just witnessed with others which rose up in my memory. I had stood in Rome under Michael Angelo's mighty dome, and beheld scattered round me a spectacle of wealth and pomp and splendor before which he habitation of crowned kings and the palaces of emperors fade into insignificance."

The speaker then described in glowing words the scenes of brilliant worship which he had witnessed in the churches of kings, where bishops, archianted and cardinals professed religion in mighty words, while they really thought only on the pompousness of their position, and continued:

"With all this what a strange contrast did the scene which I had just witnessed in this quiet village present—the slight wooden chapel with the stately fane which successive generations of workmen had toiled to build; the meagerly paid traveling preacher in his simple frock, with the princes of the church, who, issuing in liveried coaches from stately palaces, had come, arrayed in purple and gold, to preach the gospel of Him they called the Lord from heaven, Born of a village girl, a carpenter's son; of a village girl, a carpenter

Born of a village girl, a carpenter's son; the humble congregation of husbandmen and laborers, with the fashionable crowds, who thronged to the worship of God much as they would to a spectacular show or a fashionable social function; the simple and earnest prayer and fearless sermon upon practical duties voicing the protest of justice against the iniquities of the world, with the cautious discourse whose well-chosen words were calculated to give no offense and could effect no reform!

"In which of these, thought I, does religion find its true abode? What is religion?

"In which of these, thought I, does religion find its true abode? What is religion? "If I could find no satisfactory answer to the question then, the spectacle I now look upon may, perhaps, afford some help to find it. Though, in the ordinary acceptation of the term, you are not a religious body, yet in the broad sense in which I interpret the words I hold you to be such. To my mind wherever two or more are associated together for the purpose of fostering a closer brotherhood among men, of inculcating the practice of a more tolerant charity and kindlier benevolence, of holding up before the eyes of emulation loftier ideas of duty and nobler fields of achievement, of assunging suffering, succoring the weak, reviving the hopes of the discouraged, sheltering the fatherless and consoling the widow who mourns, there the spirit of religion is found. Not the religion of sectarians, or dogmatists or theologians—but the religion of Him who said, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." Not the religion which caylis at the interpretation of texts, or is torn by dissensions of dogma, but the religion my hich every man is in himself worshiper at once and priest—the religion mose precepts, harmonious with the voice of science and philosophy, are inscribed by the hand of omnipotence upon the heart of every human being to light his pathway through the world and serve him as guide through life."

GAY SEASON EXPECTED. HOTEL DEL CORONADO, Dec. 1.-From The Times' Resident Corre prom the imes resident correspondent.] The presence of the French cruiser Protet in the harbor, with the prospect of other warships, together with the usual visitors from our own navy for the winter quarters, all bid fair to make a brilliant season at Hotel

Bear and Alert will make this port their winter headquarters. Yesterday a party of hotel guests were entertained by Commodore Bar-naud and the wardroom officers of the naud and the wardroom officers of the French ship Protet, the party being sa-luted on their arrival by five guns, a most unusual proceeding, and one bear-ing with it an honor not generally ac-corded visitors. Light refreshments were served in the wardroom and cabin and a delightful afternoon was spent. In the evening the officers attended the hall at the hotel, the decorations being In the evening the officers attended the ball at the hotel, the decorations being a combination of the hotel colors, red, yellow, white and blue, and those of the French flag, blue, white and red. Yards and yards of gay-colored bunting were suspended from the ceiling, converting the jupper portion into a canopy under which was the French flag draped over the crest of the hotel, flag draped over the crest of the hotel, flag draped over the crest of the hotel, flag draped over the crest of the service of the officers, and dancing was continued until a late hour. Among the guests entertained on the ship and also attending the ball were Mrs. John C. Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Stowell, Paris; Mrs. John Otter, L. uisville, Ky.; Mrs. T. C. Hennessy, San Diego; the Misses Halliday, Illinois; Mrs. and Miss Thomas, wife and daughter of Capt. Thomas, U.S.N.; Mrs. Usher F. Newlin, Miss Harrison, Coronado; Miss Jean Craib, Coronado, and Alexis Bjornson.

Improvements are being made on the tournament to take place during the holidays. An electric wagonette to ply between the links and the hotel, with seating capacity for twelve, will soon arrive from the East, and will be put in operation at once, Among the Los Angeleños who are enjoying Coornado are Mr. and Mrs. A. Bicycle Squad Re-established.

The bicycle squad, eight patrolmen mounted on wheels, has been placed in commission again, half the force being placed on day duty, and the remainder working at night. As these officers cover beats twice as long as those traveled by policemen on foot, the change means an addition of four men to the night watch, which still is considered for too small for the proper police pretection of the city. The bloycle squad served throughout the summer and was abolished but a short time ago.

Taffy for California.

Lillian Burkhart, the actress, arrived a town last evening, and in thirty sinutes had confided to the Orpheum cepie that "California is nurturing he coming vaudeville-dramatist." according to Lillian, she has found in Valier Hackett, a San Francisco ewepaper mas, the cleverest writer one-act plays in America. Hackett vrote "The Way to Win a Husband," thich Miss Burkhart is to produce at the Orpheum this week, and is a young ann of parts, it seems. The actress laims to have had submitted to her uring the past five years not less than see one-act sketches, of which about ne in a hundred is even tolerably good.

GUILTY PAIR INHALED GAS.

Man Was Found Dead, Woman Was Revived.

Went to Bed With Poison Escaping.

Betrayed Young Wife Had to Hear Doubly Bad

Frank Tanzola was found dead and Josie Martinez just about to breathe her last at 6 o'clock last evening in a room at the New Ariington lodging house, No. 214 Commercial street. The room was filled with gas which was escaping from a wide open jet. It was the odor of gas which attracted the attention of the landlady. Mrs. Thomas Savage, and she crawled into the dark room through a window which opens on a hall. Feeling her way to the bed she placed her hand on a bedy cold in death, and without further investigation she unbolted the door of the room and gave the alarm. The police were notified and former Councilman "Tom" Savage and others entered the room. In bed with the dead body was Josie Martinez, who was breathing faintly, and efforts were made to save her life. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital, and Police Surgeon Pierce, who attended her, says she may recover. The body of Tanzola was taken to Garrett's undertaking rooms, where an inquest will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The identity of Tanzola was discovered through a bill of sale of a $25 coffin, found in his pocket, and his wife, at No. $47 Howard street, was notified of his death by Deputy Coroner & B. Strubel, who also informed the father of the dead man, G.

wife, at No. $47 Howard street, was notified of his death by Deputy Coroner A. B. Strubel, who also informed the father of the dead man, G. Tanzola, who conducts a fruit stand at the corner of Temple and New High streets.

Mrs. Tanzola, who is a young and pretty girl, says her husband left home at 7 o'clock Saturday evening and was to meet her at 9:30 g'clock at the corner of Alameda and Aliso streets and accompany her home. He failed to keep the appointment and several times yesterday she and her young, sister walked from the Howard street home to the corner of Commercial and Los Angeles streets, passing the house in which her guilty husband was inhaling the fumes which caused his death.

The Martinez woman, who pretends to be deaf and dumb, but who, it is said, can speak and hear, was too ill last night to give any explanation of the affair; but it is supposed she and Tanzola were intoxicated and that one of them in extinguishing the light Saturday night, left the gas on. No effort had been made to fill the crevices around the door and window, and there was no evidence that suicide was intended.

Josie Martinez came to Los Angeles about a month ago from Santa Barbara and had lived since Wednesday last at the Commercial street resort. It is said that she and Tanzola had been a peddier, buying walnuts and other produce from ranchers and selling the goods to local dealers.
